

This invention pertains to a novel method to screen the efficacy of various anti-viral, and especially anti-HIV and HCV agents by using a novel real-time polymerase chain reaction technique. This method can also be applied to toxicity screening, especially of mitochondrial toxicity of these compounds as well.